NOTICE OF AVAILABILITY
Chino Hills State Park
Entrance Road & Facilities Draft Environmental Impact Report
August 2004

The California Department of Parks and Recreation has prepared a Draft Environmental Impact Report (DEIR) for circulation with the intent of adoption for the Chino Hills State Park Entrance Road & Facilities Project at Chino Hills State Park at the junction of Orange, Riverside, and San Bernardino counties. The site is located within San Bernardino County

This project would build a new improved two-lane road on the general alignment of the existing unimproved dirt entrance road (Bane Canyon Road) for a distance of approximately 2 miles. Construction would relocate the road onto a more favorable alignment, as feasible, and utilize retaining walls to reduce cut and fill slopes. The proposed project would also construct a multi-use trail, include underground utilities, a trailhead, road drainage facilities, a park entrance station with utilities, a scenic overlook, a maintenance storage area, a comfort station, erosion control measures, and minor intersection improvements.
